

Information on subsequent immigration of family members to join beneficiaries of protection from Syria

IOM family support programme starting up in June 2016

The International Organization for Migration (IOM) is helping family members of Syrian beneficiaries of protection to move to Germany. Starting in June 2016, the IOM will contact all applicants who have booked an appointment at the Embassy in Beirut or who have applied for an appointment at one of the German missions in Turkey via the external service provider idata. The aim of the family support programme initiated by the Federal Foreign Office is to help applicants with any questions they have relating to the visa application process and to ensure that they can submit all the necessary documents when they arrive at the mission for their visa appointment.

The IOM will shortly open centres in Istanbul, Gaziantep and Beirut to this end. We ask all applicants to visit one of these IOM family support centres prior to their appointment at the German mission in Lebanon or Turkey. Visiting the IOM family support centre may speed up the processing of your visa application and thus the time when you can leave for Germany.
